Judge Bateman did not spring his Texas annexation plan at the Democratic Territorial convention.

The Hagerman Messenger has become so worked up about the Pecos bridge matter that it even doubts the possibility of electing Bryan in 1908.

A question that puzzles Judge Richardson is how can the administration "investigate" Bursum and continue to support Andrews, the man whom Bursum made out of mud.

One of the main arguments used by eastern people to prove that New Mexico is unfit for statehood is the fact that she sent "Bull" Andrews of Pennsylvania to congress.

All Democrats who think they have anything to gain from the pretended friendship of the Register-Tribune should stand on their heads until their brains are properly irrigated.

Attorney General Reid is right. The decent voters will not stand for such leadership as that of Mr. Bursum, nor, we might add, for that of Andrews, as that of Mr. Bursum.

Let the investigation go on. If it should extend to Chaves county, the result would make Democracy stronger all over the Territory, by showing how much better conditions exist in Democratic counties than in Republican counties.

Judge G. A. Richardson says he cannot believe H. O. Bursum guilty of any deliberately criminal act in relation to the penitentiary management, and that he will await the action of the grand jury and the court before expressing any further opinion. He believes the investigation is a good thing, but it should not be conducted with the sole idea of proving Mr. Bursum a scoundrel.

Referring to the penitentiary report, Hon. J. F. Hinkle said last night: "It is a long drawn out and complex string of figures, but after wading through it, only two points strike me as indicating carelessness or crookedness. One is the destruction of books, which no business man would do, and no public official has a right to do. The other point is the paying back of seventeen hundred dollars by Bursum after the investigation was begun, which is practically a confession of guilt."

Hon. J. F. Hinkle, who has known O. A. Larrazola, the Democratic candidate for delegate to congress, for some fifteen years, believes that he will be elected. He will carry the native vote in the greater part of the Territory, and being a man well known and respected by the English speaking population, he will get the votes of many Republicans who can't swallow Andrews, as well as the votes of English speaking Democrats.

Judge Bateman comes back from Santa Fe with the idea that the Republicans will vote against joint statehood almost unanimously in the northern counties of New Mexico. He says the native Republicans are all against jointure, and that the only natives who support it will be those who vote for Larrazola, the Democratic candidate for delegate to congress. He also believes that President Roosevelt will back up Governor Hagerman in the investigation of Territorial affairs, and if the time should come when it seems impossible to secure convictions, even certain supreme court justices may be asked by the President for their resignations. The effect of these investigations he thinks will tend very strongly toward the election of the Democratic candidate for delegate to congress.

GOING IN TO WIN.
During the caucus at Santa Fe in regard to getting somebody to accept the Democratic nomination for delegate to congress, after Captain Poe of Roswell had declined to run, and Judge Richardson had been shelved on account of his single statehood ideas, a delegate made the assertion that it wasn't fair to ask any man to run and pay all his own expenses. Finally it was proposed to subscribe money for the campaign, and within a few minutes over twenty-one hundred dollars had been subscribed—$1,400 of it paid at once in checks. Hearing this yesterday evening, Hon.

J. F. Hinkle said: "That looks like business. The members of the Territorial Committee had to pay most of the expenses of the last campaign out of their own pockets, and I didn't want to be put on that committee again. Only a few days ago I sent a check as my final assessment in settling up for the Money campaign."

HERE'S YOUR MULE.
"It would have been a graceful as well as a sensible act for the Democrats of New Mexico today in convention assembled at Santa Fe to have endorsed Delegate Andrews for re-election to Congress, especially since the Territorial Democracy has turned in for joint statehood.—Santa Fe New Mexican.

Tied behind the Republican band wagon. The mule is in favor of joint statehood, of course,—but how in thunder can a mule do anything to the elephant in front of him, and the band wagon between? Joking aside, this will be the main argument of the Republicans against voting for the Democratic candidate.
